Your patients invest in the visit. Send them home with a routine you chose.

Hair restoration is a real investment for a patient, and what happens at home is part of the plan. Without a set from you, the plan is whatever the patient finds on their own.

1

They are already asking.

Hair restoration patients ask public forums what shampoo to use, and the answers conflict. One reply says any shampoo will do. The next says sulfate-free only.

2

Three bottles is a recommendation. A long list is an upsell.

Patients on public forums describe long, costly clinic aftercare lists as an upsell. A short set you chose, handed over at the desk, is a recommendation.

3

They need somewhere to reorder.

One patient posted that they were running low on a shampoo their clinic supplied and could not find it to buy again. A set on your dispensary shelf gives patients a place to come back to.

How the set fits a three-session scalp course

A scalp course is generally spaced four to six weeks apart. The set goes home at the first session and is replenished at the last.

1

WEEK 1

Session one. The hair care set is dispensed for use at home.

The patient leaves with a complete routine, chosen by you.

2

WEEKS 5 TO 7

Session two.

A natural point to ask how the routine is going and what they need.

3

WEEKS 9 TO 13

Session three. The home care is replenished.

The set comes back to you when it runs out.

The course completes in about 8 to 12 weeks. An illustration of one protocol; your own protocol sets your schedule.

Without a set

The patient chooses a shampoo from forum advice, a drugstore shelf or a friend. You do not know what they are using, and the reorder goes elsewhere.

With a set you chose

The patient leaves with three products and one clear routine. You know what they are using, and the reorder comes back to your dispensary.

The handover, in three steps

1. Recommend. “This is the routine I chose for you.” One sentence, no sheet needed.
2. Hand it over. The complete set goes into the patient’s hands at checkout, not onto a list.
3. Replenish. When it runs out, the reorder comes back to your dispensary.

Label wording is quoted from the product labels. No ingredient list, concentration or clinical claim is made beyond it.

Documented cases: mesotherapy with Anna Harangvölgyi hair care.

CASE 1 MESOTHERAPY + HAIR CARE

6 MONTHS

Crown, photographed at the start and after 6 months.

What these cases show. Every case pairs in-chair mesotherapy with Anna Harangvölgyi hair care. They show the whole protocol. The Hair Care Set is a cosmetic and is not claimed to produce the results shown. Individual results vary.

Why Anna developed the set. Anna Harangvölgyi developed the Hair Care Set to care for the scalp around hair restoration: gentle cleansing and conditioning that supports the scalp's hydration barrier. Look at the cases and judge the whole protocol for yourself.

CASE 2 MESOTHERAPY + HAIR CARE

Before and after, hairline.

CASE 3 MESOTHERAPY + HAIR CARE

Before and after, top-down view of the part.
